

I request that you not make changes to the Wisconsin No-Call List requirements for the following reasons:

1. If I have terminated a relationship with a banking entity (or any other entity) and they have called once to question why and I have not re-established that relationship, then I really don't need to hear from them for 18 months more. Once should be enough.
2. When they call they use automatic callers that cease after 3 rings. This is extremely hard for the old and handicapped who get part-way to the phone only to have the caller hang-up.
3. The end to telemarketing phone calls has been the most beneficial to my household. It also saves the companies money by not having to spend funds to call me when I have no intention of buying over the phone.

Thank you.
